

Shoot You Kitchen Location

In response to growing requirement across broadcast, commercial and corporate for 'food based' production, Shoot You are delighted to announce the launch of its superb new kitchen film location.

Shoot You offer a modular production package for any business that requires a London based kitchen film location combined with prep & green room. Our spacious location can be dressed to your needs and easily accommodates a large crew and talent. We're happy to store your food the night before so you make full use of your production day.

We supply our highly experienced BBC production staff and equipment. We shoot 4K broadcast quality as standard (on Sony FS7's) and we're completely pre rigged on location prior to arrival so you can begin shooting immediately.

We can supply an editor on location so you (or overseas clients) can immediately preview what's been shot, begin compiling edits ... even lift still photos from the video for social media or print. We can complete post production at our studios in Surrey if required.

Shoot You have a wealth of experience working with major supermarkets, restaurants, food companies, celebrity chefs and successful startups. We hope our one-stop production solution will allow companies who e.g. require content for their restaurants, food products or kitchen equipment to quickly and professionally produce it.

Over 53% of all broadcasting is 'food' based
